

A Moment of Creativity

Idea and artistic intention:

The annoying sounds of big cities transform into a flow moment of creativity.

The Intro represents a stressful and hectic urban atmosphere, which ends in an Office. At the Office, the typewriter represents monotonous work and changes to a rhythmic frame. The fading in melody changes the setting to a daydreaming atmosphere. At the main part, the song holds the daydreaming status and adds the typewriter rhythmic. In the End the listener gets awake by fading back to the reality and hecticness of the city.

The technical choices:

The Project belongs to 4 different groups:

- Kick
- Rhythmic (Typewriter)
- Melodie (Synthesizer, Helm, Ableton Wavetables)
- Atmosphere (City, Footsteps, Closing Door)

The Kick is optimized by the EQ Filter and cuts the sound at around 1k herz, so it doesn't disturb the melody.

The Rhythmic is made up of various recordings of the Typewriter.

For the second part (min: 2:40) I used EQ Filters, reverb, delay and compressor to specify the sound and make it softer.

The melodic part is made out of seven different audio-tracks. Two of them are made with Helm, three with the ableton wavetables and one brass instrument which is processed.

The atmosphere consists of recordings (freesound.org) and were processed by panning, so it creates a more spatial feeling.

To create more tension the various tracks, change different parameters, like the drive or frequency filter in time.
